Summary of SFD

The SFD (Seamless Figure Doll) proposed by Arte Tokio refers to the innovative movable dolls that cover three categories, namely a movable figure, a doll whose outfits can be changed, and a seamless doll that has no seams in the diarthrodial joints. The “bending of joints” enjoys a high degree of freedom that cannot be achieved by existing figures and dolls. These are ultimate form of dolls and figures that can also be customized to suit personal preferences by changing the outfits or wigs on existing dolls.

Structure

The bones are made of metal wires and resin covered with soft silicone to strike any pose and to reproduce the soft texture of human skin.

Size

The SFD comes in two sizes: 1/3 scale (overall length including the head is about 40-60 cm) and 1/6 scale (overall length including the head is about 23-27 cm).

How to use the SFD

As for the SFD body sold individually without a head, attach the head of a doll or figure made by another company before playing with the doll. Original doll products and character doll products that include a head, body, and outfits as a set are also available.

Compatibility

Compatible with 1/3-scale and 1/6-scale figures or dolls. Many of the drop-in heads can be attached with the provided head joint parts. The head joint parts are made of urethane resin for later custom grinding by the collector to make the bore smaller. In addition, the collector can also make the bore larger by adding something to the head joint part using adhesives. In this way, a variety of heads can be attached to the SFD body.

* Although this product can be bent freely and can maintain different postures, the parts are not designed to be moved frequently as with an action figure. We recommend changing the posture once in a while on display.
